Sometimes we need to update this link, so if there is no workie, just GOOGLE US and check our reviews! ALL 5 STARS! This is the most important paragraph you read on this or other arcade game/pinball website: WE OFFER A 3RD PARTY INSURANCE POLICY, PALLET UP-SIZE OPTION & WE ONLY SHIP ON TOP RATED CARRIERS! Why is this important? Well, because arcade games go on LTL (Less Than Truckload) semi-truck freight carriers when traveling long distances. They can't go on a UPS or FED EX truck. (Well they can, but that's also LTL just another division than your local driver in the small trucks) So what all this means is when freight ltl is going to be in a cargo class category. This category is covered on the basis of the raw material. Most of each freight carrier covers only $1,500.00 on coin-operated pinball machines and arcade games. NEW OR USED no matter what you pay for it! This includes the specialized White Glove carriers. Our third-party policy only adds $40 to your quote. We have used this policy several times it's a much smoother process than trying to deal with the carrier. Although damage is rare, it happens! When it happens, we deal with every aspect of this process and we the excess for you! The second part of this equation is the pallet size. Pinball manufacturers use a 31X31 pallet so they can get 3 wide in semi-trucks and/or containers abroad. This means that the size of the pallet is the same size as the box. Why does this matter? Well, this means that the various other freight trips with your game can hit your game because the pallet and the games box are the same size. Transferring the game to a standard 40X48 pallet creates more space around your game to minimize the risk of other freight or forklift drivers. The other thing that greatly increases it is the inability for the cargo to tilt. A pinball machine on a 40X48 pallet is much more planted and creates a larger footprint. A 31X31 can tilt quite easily if the truck hits a curb and it is not attached to the trailer wall. Once that game is loaded onto the trailer on our dock it is mandatory that we belt the driver that game in. Is that how it goes from truck to truck? We hope so, but honestly as soon as it leaves our dock, it's no longer under our control. We have no idea when it goes from terminal to terminal and truck to truck. One thing is for sure, however, if it's not strapped in and it's on a 40X48 pallet it's much harder to tilt! This pallet upsizing service changes the freight cost because it puts it in the next category of the cargo class because of the larger footprint. This service including the 40X48 pallet is $45. The last piece as vital info you need to know about is the actual carrier. There are some great carriers and not so big carriers out there. We've been using them for the last 25 years. The not so great, yes there cheap, but they have very high claims for damaged freight. Years ago, as a company, we made the decision to stay away from them. They are just not worth the savings. It's minimally retrospective of what these games can cost, not to mention replacing a pristine fully restored original game or even a brand new game that is no longer in production! We only use an above-average carrier to transport your game. The old saying you get what you pay for can't be stressed enough in LTL shipping! For the cost of this high-end equipment, don't skimp on shipping! Believe us on this, we have learned the hard way! Some of these carriers are paid for by the slip. You stamp, write and shout DO NOT STACK over freight and paperwork, but guess what they will do? Pile on top to get more pallets on the truck. We let it happen. Finally, EACH GAME gets a tip and tell it to the shipment. This assures you and us that the cargo has remained upright during the transport and has not fallen over. This is also a signal for carriers to handle these indicators with care when they see these indicators on the freight. Once they see a tip and tell them they tend to understand that they are being monitored and that the cargo is in fact vulnerable! All this, together with the service of scaling up the To minimize the risk of damage, it is highly recommended if your shipping of your game is at significant distance. You are looking for an investment of $85 to protect your thousands of dollars in product that you just bought. If your game qualifies for free shipping your only cost would be the $85 for these two services. We'll cover your actual freight bill if that promotion is valid for your game.
